

MANY HEART SURGERY PATIENTS
WIND UP BACK IN THE HOSPITAL.
BUT AT SUBURBAN HOSPITAL,
THEY JUST COME BACK TO SAY THANK YOU.

Philip C. Corcoran, M.D.
Cardiothoracic Surgeon

Keith A. Horvath, M.D.
Chief of Cardiothoracic Surgery

The team led by Dr. Keith Horvath and Dr. Philip Corcoran at the NIH Heart Center at Suburban Hospital has been performing heart surgeries with outstanding results for grateful patients throughout the region. Formed through partnerships with the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute of the National Institutes of Health and Johns Hopkins Medicine, our center achieves better results in terms of fewer complications than most hospitals in the nation, as well as fewer readmissions after surgery. Add to that a lower mortality rate, and it's easy to see why patients and their physicians are so satisfied. Ask your doctor to send you to the surgeons who are producing the better outcomes. For more information, call 301.896.7610. Or visit suburbanhospital.org/heartsafe.

NIH HEART CENTER at
 Suburban Hospital